

My Patriotic Vow

In the presence of my God and my fellow citizens, I renew and recommit my vows to Patriotism. With all my heart, I take thee, the United States of America, to be my beloved Country; for it was founded and established for life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. With a grateful heart I will never take advantage of my freedom that was bought with the blood of my fellow countrymen. My vow is not only spoken but will be put into action as I commit to volunteer for my Country in my deeds, thoughts and contributions. I promise to support my Country in the many creative ways to which my Maker leads me. Each day for the rest of my life I will give thanks that I can proudly say, "I am a Citizen of the United States of America." This I vow to my Country and my fellow Americans until death do us part.

This Patriotic Vow was inspired by the attack on the United States of America on this day, September 11, 2001.

Janet Stewart Featherston

Copyright © 2001
By: Janet S. Featherston